MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE

MIDDLEBURY, VERMONT

Freshman week is the way we are all introduced to Middlebury . . . a time of groups, a time of clinging. Our first opinions, however transitory, were born. A time of trying to like it but only sometimes succeeding.

Midd Nite displays its varied caliber of tradition. We recall with wry amusement what made Midd great for us then—the verdure of Breadloaf, the rhythm of a hot guitar.

Victims of an archaic tradition, or flattered initiates? In any case, Blue Key and Mountain Club hikes provide the incentive for the earliest rising and the most energetic walking in all four years.

Eastern culture came to Middlebury with the Phakavali Dancers from Thailand. The grace of their fingers and feet, their unusual conception of movement enlarged our Western ideas of the dance.

After the first stampede, the herd breaks into fragments, for in the midst of confusion there is quiet . . . a moment when individual concentration forms a world entire to itself.

Homecoming and the throwing away of beanies marks the end of an era for freshmen. The upperclassmen, celebrating the weekend with the returning alums and spirits of one sort or another, admire frosh floats and enthusiasm . . . from a distance. After all, we won this year—or so we hear.

As we become involved in the mood of Middlebury life, certain places on campus begin to assume their role as the nucleus of our activities. The library, the dorm, Proctor, and the house are the centers of college routine. We look at them often, but see them only rarely, for they have unwittingly become a part of us.

We have the long village street lined with stories, the bridge, a waterfall, a big white church, and above the irregular Green, the Inn. To some a picturesque center of character and personalities. To others a dot on the map—a confinement.

& SONS

Parents weekend is the time when parents get a "true insight" into college life. We take them to a football game, tea with the president, cocktails and buffet at the house. What more?

The first snow marks the beginning of the second phase and the longest . . . winter. The first week of November seems too early, but with fortitude and blankets we weathered the Norwich game. After all first snow in December would have been much too late.

The longest stretch (77 days to be exact) is between opening day and Thanksgiving. The frustration stored up during this interval finds its outlet in one form of insanity or another. But Ugly Man comes but once a year.

Even the longest stretch had its highlights. Anthony Wedgewood Benn —humanist's liberal, anglophile's Englishman, charming, witty, persuasive.

"Above the level of the cell today is the tissue, defined as an aggregation of like cells performing similar functions. Above the tissue level is the organ, a cooperative aggregation of several different tissues. And above the organ level is . . ." One thing's for sure, someone does something because the job gets done—and usually well.

Christmas comes early to the college, just as soon as the snow has settled. We have it with a difference . . . Academic Christmas trees, the choir and its carols, an enthusiasm for going home.

It is generally known that ours is an age pedantically in love with reason and at the same time hostile to it. Just before January exams, hostility prevails and reason succumbs to a welcomed irresponsibility.

4

The chilled excitement of the Saturday night hockey game and the exhaustion of a day spent trying to make it up the rope tow or down the Allen allows us to escape the bleak aspects of winter. At the end of each day the P.R. offers its hallowed grounds to appease our aching muscles and soothe our tired voices.

The library is the beginning. It provides a conscience for our impatient minds and restless energy. It is the place where thoughts are formed, ideas organized, and the sense of achievement maintained.

At the semester break, in the midst of exams and a release from studies, we hesitated in our stride and felt an emptiness where a true personality had been. But the routine continued and we began the second half of the academic year.

Melodeon

It is assumed that the leisure time of college students is always a creative process . . . an opportunity for broadening our intellectual experience beyond the call of the syllabus. In the midst of our academic pursuits are the hours stolen for varied levels of recreation.

In one sense Carnival is a feat of organization, miraculously emerging with every event intact when all was thought lost. It is the performance of our talent, the exhibition of our ability to weather the winter . . .

Ronnie
Drumm

. . . and in another, it is the embodiment of Middlebury's lighter side. Enthusiasm for our team, the concerted effort of partying 'til two . . . and the inevitable morning after.

The snow which lay piled along every path for four long months has to disappear somewhere, and during the melting process we are usually readier for spring than it is for us. The inimitable first day of spring wakes us when we didn't know we had been sleeping.

We gravitate to the out of doors to welcome the long forgotten green of grass and trees. With the warm sun on our backs, we fall quite naturally into pairs.

The bridge game and Crest Room are forsaken for steps and lawns, and if, for some reason, we must go to the library, it's nice to know we can leave our shoes behind. Spring, with its intensity, marks the approach of the end.

Faculty

TO THE FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION:

For giving knowledge

For the abrupt—or offhand challenge

For experience shared

For time and advice, guidance and concern

For friendship when we bothered

For warmth of relation possible here

For expectation, yet just evaluation enabling us to see ourselves more clearly. In grateful remembrance and appreciation we dedicate this book.

FRESHMEN
CREST ROOM
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6TH
8:30 P.M.

WOMEN'S JUDICIAL COUNCIL — Front Row: K. Swanson, M. Leslie (Chief Justice), E. Fink. Row Two: J. Arnold, C. Breckenridge, M. Hart.

The organizations of student government are conditioned by two, not always harmonious, principles; emerging adults should begin to make critical decisions; they should make them in the best tradition.

The Student Association is the central channel for student opinion. This year it was concerned with publicizing the new honor system among the student body and bringing it to a vote. Proposed as another job was revamping the judicial councils. The SA is still working on its own organization and a clearer definition of its duties.

The Women's Judicial Council underwent a significant change during the year. Minor cases, such as those concerning late minutes, were transferred to house boards, freeing the council to deal with more important problems. Working closely with the Interfraternity Council, the Council concentrated on possible improvements in policy.

The Men's Judicial Council continued to make initial decisions and recommendations to the Dean on violations of college rules by members of the men's campus.

MEN'S JUDICIAL COUNCIL: L. Silvester, R. Maine, J. Weekes, T. Mettee (Chief Justice), M. Heaney, J. Connors, D. Fryberger.

Not Pictured: J. Bowker, H. Freeman.

The Student Life Committee, composed of administrative personnel and students, investigates problems and new ideas on campus. Its members meet monthly to consider suggestions from the campus organizations on such issues as the Honor Code, and Dean's List privileges. While Student Life makes no definite decisions, it is a valuable sounding board through which students can inform the administration of their views.

The chief concern of the Student Educational Policy Committee this year has been to formulate a statement of purpose. SEPC has strengthened its relationship with the FEPC, and the two hope to collaborate on such problems as an evaluation of independent study. Immediate aims of the SEPC include adding eight juniors to the all-senior council in order to provide continuity. Greater effort will be made to acquaint students with the work of the committee and to obtain a cross-section of student opinion.

PHI BETA KAPPA—Front Row: J. Byron, E. Cooper, D. Souter. Row Two: R. Wright, J. Simpson, R. Newton.

Election to Phi Beta Kappa is both an honor and a challenge. For the six Middlebury men and women elected to Beta of Vermont chapter, it means recognition of superior scholarship and expectation of continued achievement. The Phi Beta accumulates knowledge not only for its own sake, but also as a means of approaching diverse human problems. The Phi Beta Kappa tradition demands humble persistence in this endeavor.

WAUBANAKEE: J. Flynn, J. Weekes, T. Mettee.

Like other organizations on campus, Mortar Board, Waubanakee and Blue Key were concerned this year with a redefinition of their role in college life. Traditionally, these organizations seek to recognize outstanding individuals on campus, but they are also service groups. This year Blue Key worked to become a liaison between the administration and the students, while Mortar Board aimed to perform a similar function for students and campus organizations. In addition, Blue Key acted as guides for visiting athletic teams, Mortar Board publicized events of value and interest, and both groups participated in Freshman Orientation.

MORTAR BOARD—Front Row: R. Libman, M. Robson (President), J. Bogert. Row Two: P. Moore, J. MacLaughlin, P. Clark, S. Zuccarelli, E. Douty.

JUNIOR FELLOWS — Front Row: M. Heaney, R. Maine, D. Yeomans, C. Gibbons, S. Estee, J. Joseph. Row Two: S. Mowry, W. Marion, J. Dreves, K. Megathlin, F. Strife, H. Neuhauser, T. Colvin, W. Weld, D. Zarotney, K. Van Winkle, R. Reese, T. Suess. Row Three: J. Pelton, G. Bingham, J. McCormack, C. Larsen, R. Taylor, D. Meehan.

A Junior Fellow theoretically has in him elements of campus policeman, Dean of Men, Phi Beta Kappa, and college social director. To his freshmen he is an inexhaustible source of rides to Green Mountain, New York, Boston, or you-name-it. He knows a lot about girls, and what's more, he has a pile of past pre-A's in his room. A close look, though, convinces us that a Junior Fellow is merely a student who has had some experience with Middlebury's courses and people, and is willing to act as a link between the incoming freshmen and the faculty and upperclass students.

The life of a J.C. is essentially schizophrenic. From crisis to crisis her role changes drastically. At one moment she's a mother hen protecting while pushing. The next she's a pillar of wisdom lecturing on the Hegelian Dialectic. But in the final analysis, she's basically a Junior who's only too glad to regress and become a Freshman once more. ("Whee! Grab your water pistols, gang! It's noisy hours!")

Nervous applicants . . . inquisitive mothers . . . awkward dads . . . irrepressible little brothers . . . We have shown you our achievements, and explained our aberrations . . . as best we could.

The Board of Governors is a recent addition to the Campus scene, and it is proving a valuable one. The members direct the planning of a variety of activities which enrich campus life. BOG's biggest project this year was bringing Dean Rusk to Middlebury. In addition they have continued to sponsor such affairs as the Celebrity Series, freshman parties, Friday night movies, and student lectures. The hard work and originality which goes into these programs has benefited us all.

Our minds—the anvils

They took my money—now they want my time!

BOARD OF GOVERNORS—Front Row: M. Lam, R. Simon, F. Kytle, C. MacCormack (President), J. Sprigman, R. Coutts, C. Hoffman, S. Burton.
Not Pictured: K. Low.

WOMEN'S FORUM BOARD—Front Row: L. Wheeler, E. Henne, M. Tuttle, J. Volkert, O. Woodman, L. Gulick. Row Two: C. Oliver, N. Adams, B. Bailey, B. Donaker (President), P. Clark, A. Goldschmidt. Row Three: A. Taliak, K. Taschek, P. Rochester, J. Waller, J. Arnold, C. Haas, T. Nauta, V. Vancini, A. Treiber, J. Richardson, E. Carlton, C. Hoffman.

Through the zeal and talents of its 160 members, Women's Forum is able to perform worthwhile services for the inhabitants of Middlebury. For the children there are Scout and Brownie meetings, dancing, piano and art lessons, and Halloween and Christmas parties. In addition there is a Thrift Shop for the needy and at Christmas, baskets of food.

The rewards of this relationship are mutual, for in aiding others we bring the college closer to the town.

"Waaait a minute!"

A college newspaper is a composite of many things, reflecting the many aspects of a college campus. The editors of The CAMPUS attempt to combine the abilities of willing students with the news and feature material available. Imagination and perseverance is the key to a successful publication. Most importantly, however, The CAMPUS is a source of student leadership. Its editorials must carry the power of conviction; its opinions must be respected.

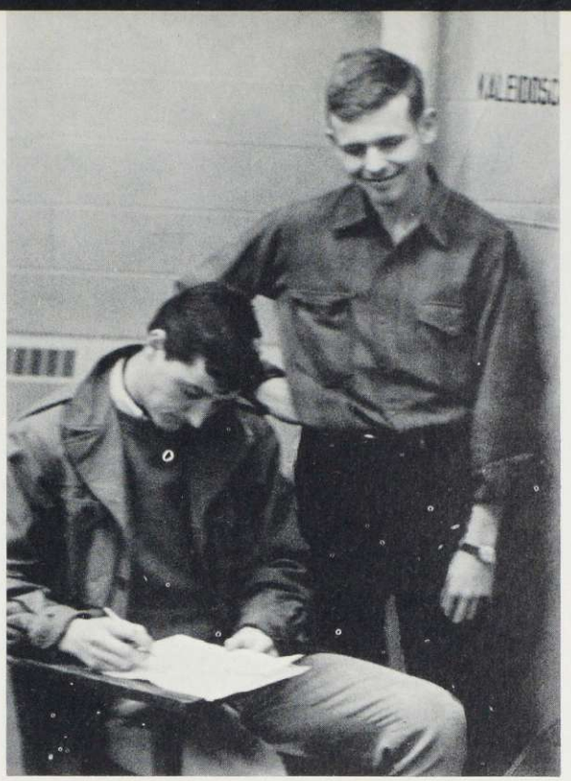
Another room locked in the library?

A yearbook is for many things—a retreat into the past, a talisman for the future, an upperclass New Faces, an asset during rush—but most of all, a yearbook must say Middlebury—as we like to think of it, but also as it is. A yearbook is made with pictures—pictures that "say something" because they remind us of a year, or four, which have influenced us and our futures—as does any experience—irrevocably.



What a thought!

We'll definitely have to crop this one . . .

It wouldn't take very long . . .

KALEIDOSCOPE—Front Row: A. Johnson, L. Melville, M. Robinson, M. Tuttle, K. Paullin, C. Tuttle, N. McMullen, P. Frey, P. Ajango, A. Connelly, S. Brown, Z. Burnett, A. Pfeiffer, C. Oliver, S. Cinema continued this year by making such great films as Bunuel's "Los Olvidados" and Eisenstein's "Alexander Nevsky" available to the student body through its subscription plan. With a program of documentaries, feature films, and experimentals, Cinema has attempted to bring some classics of the film into proper perspective with the current "renaissance" in film artistry.

Certainly some of what we publish is bad, and a little of it is good, sometimes. It is printed because we struggle with ourselves and words and wonder if others will understand. Criticism is essential for improvement, and Frontiers gets a generous portion, but it will continue to be because there will always be those of us who need to write, and those few of us who succeed.

Moving with grace and expression to jazz or the Classics — is the ambition of Dance Club. Club members, meeting in a new two-mirror studio built on McCullough's stage, dance for pure enjoyment and prepare programs to entertain the Campus and to supplement dramatic productions at the theatre.

W.R.M.C. is the college radio station. With a program of "something for everyone," it aims to please most people some of the time. Everything from rock n' roll to the classics is broadcast each day with occasional special programs such as the Celebrity Series lectures. This year, in conjunction with several other radio stations, W.R.M.C. has broadcast Panther football games to a wide listening audience.

WRMC — Front Row: P. Ballou, G. Bingham, P. Frame (President), G. Ekdahl, W. Steers. Row Two: D. Cook, P. Lynch, A. Shumann, J. Starr, A. Granwell, B. Alexander, J. Hastings, R. Stuart, C. The theatre is just a place we like to be . . . because hammering nails and hemming skirts makes the C paper more bearable, because we're depressed, and someone might smile at us through the paper mache.

Working for whatever reason, we are watching 1000 different parts from 100 different angles growing into something real and workable, challenging. A highlight in weeks of work when we go through the rehearsal wiih no script, and when the curtain is down and the grease paint itches, there is the one thought, "we did it, but it's over."

What's so special about a football game? Well, it's the timing, the beat, you know—the band! It's that extra rhythmic oomph they give to those special moments. In other situations, though, it's not the rhythm alone, but a total balance of musical elements that is important. The allure of perfection is irresistible, so we continue striving with our instruments and voices, until even the joy and worship of song are tempered by the rigor of our effort.

BAND: Don Jorge Eduardo Ramera, trumpet soloist, G. Akley, A. Austin, R. Baker, S. Bays, B. Boothe, A. Brown, S. Brown, T. Bullard, C. Burr, E. Buttolph, J. Buttolph, M. Caola, J. Carlstrom, J. A triangle first . . .

Delegating responsibility.

Middlebury's largest co-ed organization? The Mountain Club of course. Fall, winter, and spring the Club is active, sponsoring overnites, hikes, or dances nearly every weekend of the year. Freshmen will never forget the freshman hike up Breadloaf, the new-found friends, the refreshing (?) walk through the woods, the group singing—led, most naturally, by the members of Skyline, Mountain Club's governing board. And of course, there is Winter Carnival—the Club's largest project and a completely student-run affair. Planned and plotted all year, Carnival means a vacation for some, work for more, and a good time for everyone.

A feeling of smallness.

As has been the case with many colleges in the East, Middlebury was founded on strict Christian principles 163 years ago and for many years turned out candidates for the ministry with the regularity of a theological seminary. Christianity might well have been considered one of the liberal arts.

The twentieth century brought change to America, and to Middlebury as well. This change, one of religious reaction, was epitomized by the rising resentment against compulsory chapel. Secularism flourished; religious organizations languished.

With the abolition of compulsory chapel attendance, however, the apathetic spirit which had permeated religious activities at Middlebury seemed to disappear. This year various groups have made a distinct effort to become an integral part of campus life. The immediate result has been a series of lectures, debates, guest speakers, and retreats sponsored by the groups; a result pointing toward a decided increase in religious feeling and activity at Middlebury.

FOOTBALL

The 1962 season was a welcome success for Middlebury football. From what was predicted to be a rebuilding year emerged a fine 5-2 record and a state title. This was mainly due to what can best be described by the classical phrase "a team effort." Middlebury's starting line averaged only 190 lbs., not very imposing on paper. Yet on the field this was one of the most imposing lines of recent years, yielding an average of less than 5 points a game. None of the backs were especially fast or powerful, but all were capable of sustained effort to get those few extra yards that can so often keep a scoring drive under way. The offense was often stopped by larger defensive lines, but was quick to take advantage of any opportunity that presented itself, as exemplified by the Vermont game. Good football teams make few mistakes and capitalize on those of their opponents. It is in this area that the intangibles of spirit and determination have their effect. Blocking and tackling are skills that can be learned, that, with concentration, can be applied consistently, and this was a Middlebury team that learned and then applied those skills with vigor.

Opening the season against favored Wesleyan with a decisive 26-0 shutout, the Panthers asserted themselves as a power to be reckoned with in New England small-college football. The following week the Midd squad improved upon their last outing by one point, and soundly defeated W.P.I. by a score of 27-0. The Williams game was to be the showdown between two undefeated, unscored upon powerhouses. The Panthers yielded a field goal and one touchdown, were then unable to score, and were defeated 10-0. Bates next took the measure of a team that was troubled in scoring, and bested Middlebury 12-6.

The consecutive losses to Williams and Bates marked the crucial juncture of the season. The team had played well in both games, yet had lacked that "something extra" needed to take charge and win. R.P.I. was a welcome respite from the more pressing competition of the previous two weeks. The good team showing in a 48-6 runaway, coming just before the state series, was important to team confidence.

"Rush the passer . . . Don't let him throw!"

Heavy snowfall beginning at kickoff made the Norwich contest a game played on Middlebury's terms. The Panthers had shown their liking for mud in the shutouts over Wesleyan and W.P.I., and remained true to form as they outfought the Cadets and gained another shutout 24-0.

Centennial Field in Burlington was rain-softened, but not the heavy mud that had so decidedly been the best Middlebury environment to this point. The teams were evenly matched from the beginning, and neither could score until Gil Stanley recovered a Vermont fumble on the U.V.M. 5-yard line. Three plays later Paul Fava rammed in for the score and a 6-0 Panther lead. The rest of the game was largely a defensive battle, with Midd scoring on a pass, and U.V.M. finally tallying after a sustained drive of sixty yards. Middlebury had played rough, alert defense, and had capitalized on a break to win its seventh successive state championship. The season had been an unqualified success, and all the athletes of the 1962 Panther squad can be justly proud.

SOCCER

The 1962 season proved to be one of the most pleasant surprises, and successes, in Middlebury soccer history. Initially, it seemed the team would suffer a great deal from the loss of six 1961 starters and from a lack of experienced depth. However, the fall season closed with a very laudable 5-3-0 record, Middlebury having faced its toughest roster to date. Coach Joe Morrone did his usual fine job both in preparing and maintaining the team in peak physical condition, and in providing its players with that certain spark and drive known only to those who have actually played under him.

The team began its season with an unfortunate defeat at the hands of experienced Springfield, but bounced back quickly to take Union, 3-1. Next, R.P.I. presented a very formidable team, stocked with several highly-skilled foreign players, but was beaten by Middlebury desire in a close one, 2-1. Then came the low point of the season with a 2-1 loss at the hands of underdog St. Mike's. Recovering swiftly, the Midd team began an uphill climb by beating strong Coast Guard, 3-1, and by crushing Norwich, 6-0, in freezing cold.

"You've got to be there at the right time."

| | Midd. | Opp. |
|---|---|---|
| Springfield | 1 | 6 |
| Union | 3 | 1 |
| R.P.I. | 2 | 1 |
| St. Michael's | 1 | 2 |
| Coast Guard | 3 | 1 |
| Norwich | 6 | 0 |
| M.I.T. | 4 | 0 |
| Dartmouth | 1 | 3 |

The season's summit was reached as the determined Middlebury squad journeyed to Boston to engage undefeated and highly-favored M.I.T. Both the rain and the tough Panthers drove hard that Saturday afternoon and quickly dampened the spirits of the overconfident opponents. Final score: 4-0, Middlebury. The final game against always-powerful Dartmouth was lost in a well-fought contest.

Many factors made this season an outstanding achievement on the part of the Midd booters, including a complete overhaul in formation, following the St. Mike's game, which brought 14 goals to the opponents' 4 in the remaining four engagements. But a team with any strategy is only as good as its players, and this year's squad proved itself outstanding by turning a "building year" into a tremendous success. In addition, seldom has so much enthusiasm and support been received from the reserve element.

The spirited play of the '62 season's four starting seniors will be greatly missed next fall; co-captain Davis VanWinkle's skill and steady determination, co-captain Dick Floyd's talk and bustle, Larry Ring's speed and reliability in the goal, and Jeff Baldwin's drive and magnificent crosses from the wing. But with the experience and confidence gained by the rest of this year's team, and with the fine examples set by those now leaving, next year's season may well prove one of the best yet.

BASKETBALL

Basketball at Midd is one of our less emphasized sports. Yet at the end of the winter season, it is only fitting to acknowledge the quiet desperation of a team that has won one game in two years. What, we are given to wonder, could be the cause of this rather limited success?

Perhaps the most relevant factor is that of emphasis itself. As a competitor with skiing and hockey, basketball is a poor third. The sport seems inherently unable to provide the excitement of a fast hockey game, and as an indoor sport, does not give its spectators the benefit of exercise or sunshine, as does skiing. Most of the student body is conspicuously absent from the gym at home games, perhaps preferring the more exciting viewing in the library.

The excellence of the fraternity basketball league points to the amount of basketball talent eluding Stub Mackey's grasp. A poll of these court fugitives would probably conclude that their unavailibility stemmed from both the dismal performance of the present team and a preference for other forms of winter activity.

Collectively, these conditions and attitudes constitute a vicious circle, with the decline of one season feeding the decline of the next. There is not presently any ray of hope on the basketball horizon. It is reasonable to assume that next year's team will be no better, and were it not for the extraordinary dedication of those who endure playing for the entire humiliating season, the sport would perish at Middlebury.

However, the team failure should not detract from the creditable performance of some individuals. Co-captain Stewart and high-scorer Karlson performed well despite the record.

HOCKEY

This year's editon of Middlebury hockey was both hot and cold. Compiling the first losing season in several years, the team was unpredictable — sometimes hot, but just as frequently cold. Due to a lack of depth, much of the burden fell on a few individuals — and on none more heavily than John Weekes and Dates Fryberger. Captain Weekes was the more consistent of the two, several times skating the entire game with undiminished effectiveness. High-scorer Fryberger, unpredictable and always operating under defensive hounding, was in some games more equal to the challenge than others. Less conspicuous was Ed Germond, whose hard-nosed brand of hockey and effective back-checking provided many scoring opportunities.

Team effort as a whole was also unsteady, and was either obviously present in victory or obviously absent in most of the defeats. At times, though, the Panther squad was honestly over-powered. The struggles against St. Lawrence and R.P.I. were splendid, but not enough. On other occasions, the showings were poor, as against New Hampshire and Dartmouth.

Probably the main factor in the losing season was the improvement of the competition. Nearly every team was better this year than last. These schools will get better before they get worse, and Middlebury hockey for the next few years will have its work cut out. The loss of Weekes, Germond, Fryberger, Brian, White, Flynn, McKeown, and Donaldson will leave some large gaps. Bright prospects for next year are juniors Devlin and Lewandowski, and sophomores Stevens and Carey.

SKIING

The return of F.I.S. team members Eaton, Clough, and Bower sparked hopes of a Middlebury sweep of the carnival circuit this year. However, due to a rash of falls, a lack of Nordic depth, and the consistent team effort of solid Dartmouth, these hopes were not to be realized.

Middlebury started well by winning at Williams. The Middlebury skiers took firsts in every single event, but the lack of depth was evident in the narrow margin of victory over Dartmouth's second team. The following week, in their first encounter with the Green's first line troops, Middlebury was leading after the downhill and cross-country, only to lose on the second day after two falls in the slalom. Middlebury still could boast individual winners in every event. The St. Lawrence meet was merely a filler before the Eastern Team Championship at our own Carnival.

At the end of the first day of Middlebury Carnival, Dartmouth held a slight lead, overtaking a Middlebury win in the downhill with a strong second, third, fourth, and sixth in the cross-country. On Saturday morning, Eaton fell in the slalom, costing him a first, and Clough broke a ski, costing him a place. Jacobson of Dartmouth copped a win, and for the first time Middlebury lost a first place in a carnival event. Tauber finished high, and Middlebury still eked a team win for the slalom. The jump saw us again bow to Dartmouth depth, despite a tremendous effort and new Carnival record by John Bower.

New Carnival Record.

Middlebury's most dependable point gatherer was United States Nordic Combined Champion John Bower, who won all of his events. His F.I.S. teammates Eaton and Clough were plagued by falls and did not bury their competition as was hoped. The perennial contenders for eastern ski supremacy, Middlebury and Dartmouth, had different attacks. Middlebury's was based on the supreme talents of a few, too few individuals, while Dartmouth prevailed with a wonderfully balanced team offensive. Middlebury's greatest loss will be that of Bower, requiring great effort from newcomers in a Nordic squad that is also losing Hanscom and Hixson. Whether Eaton and Clough will be available or involed in Olympic competition is not certain, but in any instance the depth of Dartmouth will be the greatest obstacle to Middlebury's hopes of regaining the Eastern Championship.

The Panhellenic Council exists to maintain equality and fair play in the sorority system. It does this by regulating many sorority activities and projects, among them concessions, and mixers which acquaint the freshmen with sororities. In addition Panhel considers the problems of individual sororities, and attempts to evaluate and strengthen the system.

The IFC's largest project this year was the revision of rules governing the new sophomore rush. Its usual work of regulating and coordinating fraternity social activities continued. The council sponsored Help Week, the Blood Drive, and Halloween and Christmas parties. Sensitive to the close scrutiny which fraternities throughout the country are undergoing, the Council continues to examine Middlebury's system.

The freshman blends naivete and arrogance, with a fury of enthusiasm, unmatched by upperclassmen.

The sophomores, no longer new, find that they must take a new look at themselves. The year becomes one of discontent and doubt, of decision and involvement.

Sixty-four

Junior year, studying becomes more usual, sometimes even serious. People become individuals, recognizing and defining themselves.
